WILL TRY TO 'TALK' WITH MARS TO-DAY

Dr. Frederick E. Millner, Wireless Phone Expert, to Experiment in Nebraska.

DEAD WIRES TO BE USED

Instruments With Antennae All Over State to Be Operated Three or Four Days.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.

OMAHA, Neb., April 19.—Communication with Mars will be attempted here to-morrow by Dr. Frederick E. Millner, wireless telephone expert, who installed the wireless telephone system around Chesapeake Bay during the war. For three or four days Dr. Millner's instruments, with antennae reaching all over Nebraska through the aid of dead telegraph wires on telegraph poles, will be cut in and his experts will "listen in" for signals from Mars.

The attempt of Professor David Todd of Amherst to attain a similar result by the use of a balloon piloted by Captain Stevens, will be made Friday provided permission to conduct the experiments is received from Washington by that time. Professor Todd has not yet arrived at Fort Omaha, where the experiments are to be conducted. Dr. Millner gave out the following statement today: "In endeavoring to receive an interplanetary message a common ground of communication or thought must be found. On earth we know of the movements and actions of the various planets and we know it with mathematical precision. If these other planets are inhabited the inhabitants, if they be as far advanced as we of this earth, must have an equal knowledge of the earth's movements.

"These planets all move with a regular mathematical movement. Therefore, in mathematics, we have a common ground, although mathematics may be differently conceived and interpreted in these various planets if they be inhabited. The form of life or being may be of a nature not dreamed of by us. But two and two make four, whether on the earth or on Mars.

"All these planets give out either a reserve or a direct light. A study of the spectrum of the various planets has been made. Therefore it is not too far fetched to imagine that with the knowledge of their spectrums and of light waves, visible or invisible, efforts might be made to communicate through interplanetary space by means of these light waves. It was reported that the Marconi company first intimated that they had heard peculiar signals which they could not understand.

"A wireless signal is a form of an invisible light-wave of a definite rate of vibration. With the modern means of interpreting these definite rates of vibration it is not impossible to believe that some rhythmic mathematical signal made by a light wave or some spectral modification of some character might be intercepted by means of radio apparatus upon this earth."

Chemical Plant Has Explosion.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 20.—The explosion of a drum of monochloro benzol caused fire damage estimated at $75,000 to the plant of the Rollin Chemical Company here to-day. An employee who was blown through a window and severely bruised suffered burns also. The cause of the explosion is unknown. Five of the thirty-two tanks of the chemical in the plant were destroyed.

Since way back in the 80's Borden's have given the people of New York a regular and abundant supply of fresh, pure, healthful country milk. ### The Eagle on the gold coins of the United States is always as beautiful as the words that stand out upon them so magnificently.

Among birds the Eagle is King. It is the emblem of noble nature. The great, far-seeing bird compels our admiration by its iron courage, strength of wing, and conscious power, and has for centuries been chosen as an emblem of sovereignty.

The two-headed Eagle once signified a double empire, but not so now.

Eagle eyes watch over the service of this Store.

The Instep-strap Pump

As novel an idea as it is practical in application.

It combines most successfully the best features of the pump and the strap slipper.

Narrow double straps meet over the instep where they are joined with a small piece of elastic. Ribbon bow or decorative buckle may be used over this fastening.

Modified French heel and long vamp with toe that is not extreme.

In dull kidskin or patent leather, $14 a pair.
First floor, Old Building.

Women's Finer Eton Suits now $98

Were $135 to $175

A small collection, developed in most excellent qualities of Poret twill and tricot, and featuring all the small details that raise a suit above the commonplace.

The suits all feature a beautifully made, finely knife-pleated skirt and a swathing sash, girdle, carefully designed to give exactly the desired effect with a very short-coated suit.

Several of the suits have long roll collars—achieving a line very smart for an Eton suit. Several are of the notch collar type, exquisitely tailored.

Some have touches of hand embroidery or are braided with intricately woven black silk braid applied with perfect workmanship.

Some details of seam finishings and minute pin tucks on collars and cuffs are beautifully worked out in many cases.

Sash girdles are of satin or tricolette, deeply fringed.

In midnight blue only.

Illustrated are two suits typical of the collection.

Second floor, Old Building.

Fur Storage

The Wanamaker Fur Storage vaults are ready. Telephone us to send for your furs. Stuyvesant 4700. Ask for Fur Storage Section.

The Suit Blouse

The midnight blue suit oforgette crepe or chiffon, crepe de chine or crepe meteor is one of the most effective and practical ways of completing the tailored costume so that it really looks like a three-piece costume and not merely like a "suit and blouse." With a blouse of this type, the coat may be taken off and the blouse and skirt will be as perfectly correct a frock.

Overblouses in midnight blue crepeorgette and meteor, made with sashes that tie in back and embroidered carefully in matching and contrasting beads. And trim little under-skirt blouses for those who prefer them.

$10 to $75.

Second floor, Old Building.

Direct From Constantinople

By Steamer "Black Arrow," just arrived

$119,000 cargo Oriental Rugs

Purchased for Cash, by Our Own Commissioner

This is the first retail shipment of any consequence bought in the Orient since the armistice and shipped direct to America. Importing wholesalers have had one or two shipments, each selling quickly. But nothing like this.

Our own commissioner—from New York—was on the spot when the rugs arrived in Constantinople—from the Caucasian, Anatolian, Persian and Afghanistan rug-weaving districts. Looked them over. Bought them. Paid cash for them. Packed them up, and shipped them by first boat direct to New York. And here they are.

Wednesday we shall offer them just as they are, just as they are used in the country of their origin, not even waiting to wash a few of the rugs that seem to need washing.

About 200 Antiques

There are about 200 antique pieces—welcome news to lovers of fairly old Oriental rugs. Their number is limited. The price of one antique Oriental rug in a few years will be determined by the intensity of a man's desire to own it. Modern development is drawing rug weavers into more remunerative fields.

The Bokhara Carpets

are unusually fine—genuine Royal Bokhara carpets of finest texture, typical in design of the best Bokhara weaves. We have not seen any so fine as these for a long time.

The Kazaks

are a wonderful lot. They are extra heavy rugs, with large, bold designs. Good for public places, halls, libraries. It is next to impossible to wear them out.

A Dealer

saw some of the rugs as they were being unboxed. He wanted to buy some of them. We had to remind him that our purchases were for the public—not merely for re-sale at a profit. He will have to take his share along with others in the Rug Gallery to-morrow.
